DIRECTOR'S LETTER

Jason Steuber, Appleton Director

Spring has sprung at College of Central Florida’s Appleton Museum of Art, and our grounds are once again bursting with brilliant greens and blooms.

Looking to feast your senses? You’ll be delighted to see that we’ve joined creative forces with the Ocala Civic Theatre for a once-in-a-lifetime adventure. “Finding Beauty,” an exhibition inspired by “Beauty and the Beast,” is truly a stage-to-gallery artistic collaboration. One-of-a-kind, handcrafted costumes by Eryn Brooks Brewer, OCT’s award-winning costume designer, are expertly paired with a curated art exhibit by Patricia Tomlinson, the Appleton’s curator of exhibitions.

Having cravings to be creative? I welcome you to participate in our summer studio art programs. On tap are in-person Summer Art Camps for children, as well as classes and workshops for adults. In addition, you can submit your photos to the highly anticipated “Mobile Photography Contest and Exhibition,” now in its eighth year. Young and seasoned photographers alike are encouraged to submit original images for this friendly competition.

Want to please your culinary palate? Partake in Appleton members-only coupons from local eateries and drinkeries. With over 40 community partnerships with local schools, nonprofit and for-profit institutions and businesses, your Appleton membership is one of many ingredients in the Appleton’s success stories of bringing art and communities together.

Be our guest and bring all your artistic appetites to the Appleton for world-class experiences right here in Ocala!

Bon Appétit,

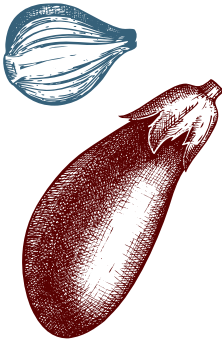

Jason Steuber

PS - Fun facts about French gastronomy from our restaurateur friend Elodie Perron of Ocala’s La Cuisine restaurant celebrating “Finding Beauty” and “Beauty and the Beast”...

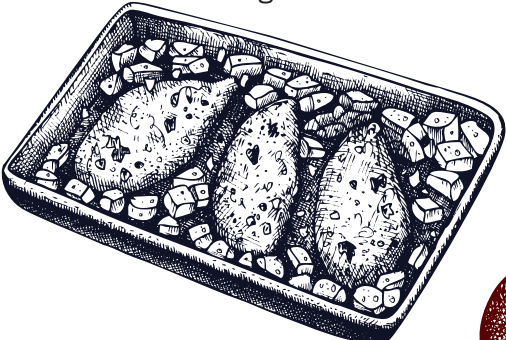

Prior to the French Revolution, a typical French dinner at the Versailles Chateau consisted of 20 to 30 dishes, which were enjoyed after 10 p.m.

Menus were composed of dishes still found in modern kitchens. A typical entrée, like chicken, guineafowl or lamb, would be served with potatoes and green vegetables.

French menus were introduced to frozen desserts in 1553 by the Italian Catherine dei Medici when she became the wife of Henry II of France. It wasn't until 1660 that ice cream was made available to the general public. It remained a rare, exotic dessert enjoyed by the elite until 1800.

Proper French table manners suggest that you must finish your plate, otherwise the host will be offended. Generally, the entire plate should be wiped clean with bread from the baguette before the next course is served.

FINDING BEAUTY: A COLLABORATIVE EXHIBITION WITH OCALA CIVIC THEATRE

"Finding Beauty" is a unique exhibition in partnership with Ocala Civic Theatre that explores creativity and the spirit of collaboration. On view in the second-floor galleries, the exhibition merges costume drawings and more from OCT's production of "Beauty and the Beast" with the objects from the Appleton collection that inspired them. Based on Rococo-style works in the collection, OCT's costumes borrow patterns, colors and motifs from objects such as a Louis XIV-type clock and wardrobe, as well as fine porcelain objects and elaborate candelabra.

Along with showcasing the inspiration objects, the exhibition highlights the creative design process and how a static object, such as a clock, can eventually become the costume for a living actor to magically transform into a character such as Cogsworth. The exhibition also includes set photos and sketches by OCT's award-winning costume designer Eryn Brooks Brewer, a touch table of fabrics and costume embellishments, a photo op and more. After June 5, a selection of costumes from the actual performance will also be on view in the galleries.

OCT's production of "Beauty and the Beast" runs May 12-June 5; tickets go on sale April 11. For more information about OCT or to purchase tickets to "Beauty and the Beast," visit www.ocalacivictheatre.com or call 352-236-2274.

Director's Circle and VIP Reception
Thursday, May 12, 5:30-7:30 p.m.

Director's Circle members are invited to be our guest at a French-inspired evening with hors d'oeuvres and a special preview of the exhibition. RSVP required to Colleen Harper, harperc@cf.edu, or 352-291-4455, ext. 1831.

A TALE AS OLD AS TIME

The original French story that we now know as "Beauty and the Beast" (in French: La Belle et la Bête), dates back to at least 1740. It is a classic fairy tale that teaches the embrace of inner beauty, rather than superficial qualities — a moral that stands true across time, age and language. The tale also has been translated across multiple mediums, ranging from plays and movies to television series and beyond. Most popularly, Disney's 1991 rendition has become an animated staple that is still very much enjoyed by children today. We invite you to be inspired and amazed by "Beauty and the Beast" through Ocala Civic Theatre's theatrical production alongside our own art exhibition, and if you want to experience more, here are a few of the more popular iterations of the timeless tale.

"La Belle et la Bête," 1946

Directed by avant-garde poet and artist Jean Cocteau, this French film is a classic that was created during the end of World War II in France.

"Beauty and the Beast," 1987-1990

This American fantasy-drama for adults was a TV series that first aired on CBS and won six Daytime Emmys. "Game of Thrones" George R.R. Martin was a writer and producer on the show that lasted for three seasons.

A still from Jean Cocteau's "La Belle et la Bête," 1946.

"Beauty and the Beast," 1991

Directed by Gary Trousdale and Kirk Wise, this highly successful animated Disney film is beloved by many generations.

"Beauty and the Beast," 2017

Directed by Bill Condon, this live-action Disney feature film has a star-studded cast and follows the 1991 animated version, along with providing a backstory to many of the original characters' pasts.

Through November 6

INVENTED OBSERVATIONS: PHOTOGRAPHS BY STEVEN BENSON

In Steven Benson's recently opened show in the Balcony Gallery for Florida Artists, the photographer explores the world with his meditative black-and-white photographs of everyday people and scenes. Benson writes, "There is something extraordinary about finding magic in things, places, people and processes never intended to carry any grand significance. It's long been known that photographing something places importance on the subject — even the mundane." Taken throughout the globe, Benson's images explore a complex search for meaning and poetry in being human.

Benson is a Professor of Photography/Video at the School of Photography and Media Studies, Daytona State College. He holds a Bachelor of Fine Art from the College for Creative Studies and Master of Fine Art from Cranbrook Academy of Art in Bloomfield Hills, Michigan. He is the recipient of Creative Artist Grants and National Endowment for the Arts/Arts Midwest Fellowship. His work is represented in numerous collections including the Museum of Fine Art-Houston; Detroit Institute of Arts; Centre Georges Pompidou; and the Museet for Fotokunst in Denmark. Solo exhibitions of his photography include the Centre Georges Pompidou and myriad photography shows in Argentina, South Korea, Syria, Poland and China, among others.

DEPICTING THE DANCER: WORKS BY ERNST OPPLER

Works from the permanent collection by German artist Ernst Oppler are now on view in the first-floor Preview Gallery. In the early 1900s, Oppler became one of the most renowned artistic chroniclers of the history of German ballet. He used his power of observation to depict the legendary Ballet Russes dancers such as Vaslav Nijinsky and Anna Pavlova. It is no surprise to see that many of Oppler's etchings focus on immortalizing Pavlova in various poses from her signature work, "The Dying Swan." Lasting only four minutes, the brief solo ballet was choreographed for Pavlova in 1905 by Mikhail Fokine to music by Camille Saint-Saëns. The piece became an iconic part of Pavlova's career as she performed it over 4,000 times — including Tampa in 1915!

BLOW UP II: INFLATABLE CONTEMPORARY ART

Rescheduled from summer 2020, we're pleased to announce "BLOW UP II." This exhibition explores the imaginative and often whimsical ways that artists use air as a tool for creating large-scale sculptures. The internationally renowned artists of the seven inflatable installations translate everyday materials and imagery into larger-than-life yet nearly lighter-than-air art that is rich with meaning. The figurative, conceptual and abstract works are accessible while using the perception of space to open a dialogue about pop culture and social norms.

"BLOW UP II: Inflatable Contemporary Art" was organized by Carrie Lederer, Curator of Exhibitions, Bedford Gallery, Leshner Center for the Arts, Walnut Creek, California.
